GENERAL NEWS.

Teller Says He will not Formally Reply to Hill.

Congressman Thompson of Kentucky Indicted for Murder.

Two More to be Hanged for the Phœnix Park Crime.

Teller's Reply.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Teller informed a representative of the Associated press this evening that he does not intend to make any formal reply to Senator Hill's letter, and added that although he found it was full of errors and misrepresentations he does not propose taking any public notice of any portion of it that is local or personal in its character. He did not think the public had any interest in those matters. He said, however, as to the Yellowstone park lease, that he took the advice of his assistant, Joslyn, and of McCammon, law officer of the department, and that the lease was, in their opinion, in accordance with the law. Teller went on to say that it does not, as the senator assumes, give control of the park to the lessees. Any number of other leases may be made in every respect as advantageous to the lessees as this one. No exclusive privilege is given and no advantage is given in sites. The lease covers sites for a hotel and stage stations, aggregating ten acres. Others may, if they desire, have the same.

As to rulings of the department in favor of corporations in the matter of land grants the senator said lately a general charge concerning a matter of which he could know no more than the general public. The rulings have all been made in conform to decisions of the supreme court and opinions of attorney generals.

Concerning the duty of executive departments of the government in that respect the secretary furthermore remarked that he is not authorized to legislate but simply administer the laws whether such laws are in accordance with his views or not, and that Senator Hill might have ascertained what his views on this subject were from his last annual report of the department of the interior.

Senator Hill left Washington this evening for Colorado. Before his departure he was asked whether he had anything further to say at present with reference to his controversy with Secretary Teller. He replied that every statement in the letter was true.

Phil Thompson Indicted.

CINCINNATI, May 2.—The Commercial-Gazette's Harrodsburg special says: The grand jury to-day returned an indictment for murder against Hon. Phil B. Thompson, jr., for killing W. H. Davis April 27. Thompson will be rearrested to-morrow. The indictment creates surprise, though it is generally approved. The defendant expected it. It is expected the prisoner's father, one of the ablest lawyers in the state, will be of the counsel for his son.

There is a disposition to criticise the conduct of Miss Buckner, on whose statements to her cousin, Phil B. Thompson, it is supposed he made his attack on Davis. Mrs. Davis protests that justice has not been done her husband; that he was as good a husband as ever woman had. She asserts her immovable trust in the honor and innocence of her husband. She says the testimony against her husband was all concocted; that Miss Buckner had sworn to have revenge on her and her oath had been fulfilled. Hon. J. C. Blackburn arrived to-night to assist in the defense.

Two More for the Hangman.

DUBLIN, May 2.—Patrick Delaney and Thomas Caffrey, two more of the men charged with participation in the murders of Cavendish and Burke, were arraigned for trial this morning. They created quite an excitement in the court room by pleading guilty to the charge against them. Both were sentenced to be hanged June 9d.

Before Caffrey had pleaded guilty he was informed by his solicitor that the crown gave no hopes of mitigation of the sentence of death which would be passed upon him. When Delaney was called upon to plead he said: "I am guilty of being in the park at the time Cavendish and Burke were killed, but I did not commit murder. I plead guilty." The judge explained that this really amounted to a plea of innocence. Delaney then formally pleaded guilty. He said, "I was brought into this at first foolishly, not knowing what it was. I was forced from my work to go to the park. We had to obey the orders of the society or take the consequences. When I got into the park I could not get away. I saw the murders committed, but took no part. I went to the park on Kavanagh's car. He speaks the truth and so does Carey. The murders were committed by Joe Brady and Timothy Kelly and by nobody else. I saved Judge Lawson's life. I was put on to shoot him by Mullett and Brady. The only way to escape the task was by calling the guard's attention."

Judge O'Brien in passing sentence on Delaney said he had at the previous trial of the prisoner for attempting to shoot Lawson pitied him because he showed some feeling for his wife and family. The prisoner would see to what misery they had been brought by the wicked system of conspiracy.

When Caffrey was placed in the dock his face wore a smile. The consequence of pleading guilty was again fully explained to him. On being asked whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed on him he replied, in a loud, clear voice: "All I have got to say, standing on the brink of the grave, is, I did not know what was going to happen until 20 minutes before the murders were committed. I was bound to go to the park under pain of death." The judge in passing sentence said there was no means of judging the truth of the prisoner's statement. He did not intimate that it was necessarily wholly untrue.

Civil Service Rules.

WASHINGTON, May 2. In considering the proposed civil service rules the cabinet has not yet reached a decision upon the regulation providing for distribution of appointments among states and territories on a basis of population. It is a question whether strict adherence to this rule would not seriously hamper the administration. A majority of the cabinet inclines to the view that appointments ought to be made on merits regardless of residence.

Power of the American Hog.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The editor of Handel's Zeitung called at the office of the Associated press to-day and left the following card: Sargent's letter was translated from the consular reports to the state department by M. Meyer Meyer. The latter states that the translation was made with the utmost care and is absolutely as accurate as it could be. Mayer says he has information that hosiery manufacturers of Germany are moving to secure the abolition of prohibitory legislation against pork. They are alarmed lest action be taken by the next United States congress imposing a duty on hosiery, which will exclude it from the United States. This would be a disaster to a great industry of Germany. If such a measure passed congress thousands of operatives of Germany would be without means of gaining a livelihood, be thrown out of work and millions of dollars capital be wasted. Of $7,000,000 worth of hosiery annually imported into the United States $4,500,000 comes from Germany.

Strikes.

PITTSBURG, May 2.—Complete reports from the railroad coal district, in which a strike was inaugurated yesterday, state that all miners have joined the strike against reduction, save those at W. P. Rend & Co.'s and the Cherry Hill Coal company. A delegation of strikers, headed by martial bands, will surround these pits this afternoon and remain until the men at work join the strikers. Operators are preparing to have the strike kept off their property, but violence is anticipated.

There is no change in the state of the cigar makers and plasterers strikes.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—Coal miners in the Belleville, Illinois, district struck yesterday. They claim that they have been getting one and a half to two cents a bushel for digging and now demand two and a half. Operators refused to comply, but, it is said, they probably will accede to the miners' demand. It is understood that similar action has been taken in all mining districts of the state.

Diligent inquiry fails to reveal any movement among cigar makers here looking to a strike. A few manufacturers are paying a slight advance, but the great bulk of men are working at the old schedule.

Texas Crops.

ST. LOUIS, May 2. A north Texas reporter for the national agricultural bureau makes the following crop report for May: Wheat late, but looks well. Rye and barley hardly average; but little of the former sown. Spring pasture is looking well. Corn is all planted and has a good stand. Cotton is not all planted, some up. The stand will be good, having had rains recently. There will be less planted, owing to low prices and scarcity of labor, particularly at picking time. Planters are behind with their plowing. Spring planting of all crops is about the same time as last year. There will be a large crop of millet this season. Planting this year is about twenty days late, notwithstanding which prospects are good. Recent rains have given new life and planters are cheerful and hopeful.

Putting Away the Rustlers.

KANSAS CITY, May 2. Sheriff Mason, W. T. Bowman and Major Albert J. Fountain of New Mexico, with a posse of government soldiers passed through this city to-day en route to Fort Leavenworth, having in charge John Kinney, known as the king of the rustlers, and eight members of his gang, who are under sentence of long imprisonment at Fort Leavenworth. This gang has for a number of years been a terror to peaceable citizens throughout New Mexico and Texas and has carried on systematic depredations chiefly in cattle stealing. During Major Fountain's raids some months ago 23 men were captured, 14 sentenced to jail in different parts of New Mexico and Texas and the remaining nine are now bound for the government prison at Leavenworth, one of them to serve a life sentence.

London Banquets.

LONDON, May 2.—At the National Liberal club banquet this evening, Gladstone said the government had met dangers from the agency of secret societies successfully.

The annual dinner for the Royal Literary fund was given to-night. Lord Wolseley presided. United States Minister Lowell responded to the toast, "American Literature."

Irish Items.

DUBLIN, May 2.—The grand jury has been summoned to meet to-morrow to find bills against men who are charged with conspiracy to murder.

The sentence of Delaney will probably be commuted to life sentence.

Joseph Hanlon, awaiting trial, has finally been accepted as approver. He will confirm the evidence of the two Careys against fifteen prisoners in Kilmainham jail, charged with conspiracy to murder.

CORK, May 2. A prominent member of the nationalist party named Murphy has been remanded for trial for refusing to testify at a private inquiry.

COLORADO MATTERS.

Good Time Made in Yesterday's Races at Pueblo.

Gen. Howell of Leadville Announces His Return.

Deep Snow Covering the New Carbonate Field.

Pueblo Races.

PUEBLO, May 2.—The second day's attendance at the races was equally as large as the first, and the sport proved even more interesting. The first race, a mile and one-half dash, for a purse of $400, was won easily by Holly and Carlile's Mary S.; Tin Cup second; Louis XIV third. Time, 2:50.

The second race was half a mile heat race, best two out of three, for a purse of $300. There were four starters. During this race the wind was so high and the track was obscured by clouds of dust, while the horses ran facing the wind. The first heat was won by Holly and Carlile's Mark Boram; Sorrel Dan second, Lucy Walker third, Trinidad Boy being distanced. Time 49 seconds, the fastest time ever made in the state, and considering the condition of the track it was phenomenal. The second heat was won by Mark Boram, with the horses in the same position. Time 50 seconds.

The third race was a pacing race, best 3 in 5, for a purse of $500. There were four starters and four heats were paced. The first heat was won by Lady Winn; Sucker State second, Little Nell third, Winder barely having his distance. Time 2:42. The second heat was won by Winder; Little Nell second, Lady Winn third, Sucker State fourth. Time 2:42. The third heat was won by Winder; Sucker State, 2d; Little Nell, 3d. Time, 2:43. The fourth and last heat and race was won by Winder; Sucker State, 2d; Little Nell, 3d; Lady Winn, 4th.

The grand free for all trotting race occurs to-morrow, and a mile and quarter dash and a five furlongs race for 2 year olds.

Gen. Howell Returned.

DENVER, May 2.—Gen. T. C. Howell, the Leadville bank president who was enjoying himself in Europe while the directors of the bank of which he was head were looking into his affairs and attaching his property wherever they found it, stood in the rotunda of the Windsor hotel this morning, shaking hands with his friends and telling them all that he felt as well as it is possible for a man to feel after having crossed the Atlantic ocean in the month of April. A reporter asked him if he had any thing to say for publication regarding the misunderstanding between himself and the directors of the City National bank of Leadville. "No, sir; not a word," said he, in a lively, buoyant manner. "Except," he added, smiling pleasantly, "you might say that I have had a very pleasant trip to Europe and after a rough passage back I'm here to stay and I'd like to have every one know it. You might also add that my health is good, very good; and that I do not hesitate to say that I shall take a trip to Europe whenever I want to. I think that's all I have to say."

Deep Snow at Garfield.

DENVER, May 2.—Agent Lemar, just down from Garfield, says snow at that place is two feet deeper than it was four or five weeks ago.

Passenger Rates for the G. A. R.

DENVER, May 2.—Pool Commissioner Daniels to-day issued a circular regarding rates to the G. A. R. encampment. The round trip from the Missouri river to Denver will be $25 or one fare. This will be to none but the G. A. R. men in uniform and holding certificates of membership.

The Price of a Husband.

DENVER, May 3.—This afternoon Mrs. Martha E. Hannah commenced suit in the superior court against the Denver & New Orleans Railroad company for $5,000, on account of the killing of her husband by a Denver & New Orleans locomotive last December.

Tourists' Tickets.

DENVER, May 2.—The Colorado pool association has issued circular No. 10, authorizing and regulating the sale of tickets to Colorado points after May 15th. A new arrangement has been effected which, while it will neither benefit nor injure any of the railroads, will be a great advantage to the tourists. Heretofore if a traveler bought a tourist's ticket over the Union Pacific he had to return by that route. This season he will be given the privilege of coming west by one route and returning by either of the others.

Cincinnati's Festival.

CINCINNATI, May 2.—The dramatic festival occupied a large portion of to-day and to-night. "Julius Cæsar" was repeated at the matinee and "Much ado about Nothing" to-night. At each performance fully four thousand people were present.

A Dangerous Mania.

BOSTON, May 2. Hattie Thornton, aged 12, who set fire to the Hotel Glenden five times, has been arrested. She labors under a mania caused by interest in a patent fire escape exhibited recently at the hotel.

MINING MATTERS.

Notes Gleaned from Our Exchanges.

THE UN-A-WEEP MINES.

Delta Chief.

Capt. E. M. Anderson returned last week from the Un-a-weep country and reports matters in that camp booming. The Red Chief is down over twenty feet, and sinking as fast as two shifts can go down. Gray copper has been struck in a number of the claims and the lucky owners are already arrogating to themselves airs of millionaires. Prospecting is going on uninterrupted and many new discoveries are being made and located. A town called Un-a-weep City is being laid out by the enterprising miners, and already corner lots are in demand. A number of transfers of ranches and cattle ranges have been made of late and the country is assuming the appearance of a permanent camp. Cattle fit for the slaughter house are being driven to the railroad for shipment to Denver and other eastern markets. Bunch grass is heading out finely all over the valley and mesas. Cattle is as fat as it stall fed through the winter. Captain Anderson has left on our table as fine specimens of gray copper ore as can be found in any district of the state, and he reports plenty of them. Assays from the copper leads that have been had of late run as high as fifty-seven per cent. copper, seven ounces silver and a trace of gold. Some of the assays show a larger amount of gold and silver and a less per cent. of copper. A number have gone to the headwaters of the Rio Dominquez to look after the mines known to exist there, and flattering reports may be had from there at any time. Altogether the district has a very encouraging future before it.

GRANT'S RETURN.

Leadville Democrat.

Each hour in the new era of this camp acquires some original or foreign feature which enables it to assert the magnetism it possesses for capital. The press of the capital city which masquerades in new and palatial buildings cut upon the bias, may do her utmost to retain the patronage of a passenger en route for this district by exaggeration and vociferous cries of yellow flags, but time finally explodes the tradition and makes capital more active in the effort to overtake the hours lost in listening to the malicious statements made by the giddy gang whose subsistence depends upon the generosity of a few transients. When that arrogant "burg" that is attempting to wear the breeches and trappings of a metropolis succeeded in securing the patronage of Grant's smelter, it went into the ecstacy of a school boy, and rejoiced in the presumption that it had stolen from this city one of her principal resources. The smelter did leave, but the prodigal is about to return, for it is generally believed Governor James B. Grant is to erect a smelter in this camp with a capacity of two hundred and fifty tons. During his occupation of the commonwealth chair his attention has not been diverted entirely from the progress of Leadville, and his frequent visits to this city indicated that he still maintained an interest in its well being, and was ready to reward any merits that she might put forth. It has been known for a long time that the capacity of the smelters was gradually growing inadequate and that the production was continually increasing, and upon good and reliable authority it is said that Governor Grant has decided to put in a smelter in California gulch that will exceed in capacity that of any which has ever been blown in. Snapping the rumor that Grant was to return, the mining reporter called upon Colonel R. E. Goodell and asked him in reference to the matter. That gentleman, after being subjected to considerable cross questioning, admitted that Governor Grant had considered the matter seriously upon Sunday last and had virtually signified his intention of building a new smelter in Leadville, the location of which was to be a short distance from that of which little is seen at present but ashes. He added that the governor had said that he was able to look ten years ahead in the camp and that he confessed that never before had he witnessed a greater output. Mr. Goodell informs the reporter that at the completion of the new Grant smelter they will be able to treat ore from one to two dollars under the existing prices, and that this would certainly have the effect of clearing the dumps of almost every mine in the camp. With these facilities for the treatment of the mineral there is no doubt but that the output for the present year will exceed largely that of any previous season. Calling upon Manager Lou C. Leonard of the Matchless, to whom the reporter had been referred for information, that gentleman replied that he was in possession only of the representations and reports of others, but that upon the strength of that information he was confident that Governor Grant had decided to accept the inducements offered for a new smelter, and that he would proceed at once to secure material for its construction. Although the matter is not definitely settled, the reader may be justified in anticipating the return of the Grant smelter. It is said that so confident is Governor Grant in the future of Leadville that he has purchased interests in several properties which have heretofore been known only to the recorder's books.

SILVERTON.

This plain statement of solid facts from the Silverton Democrat bears the impress of solid truth: "There are a great many old-time Colorado miners who have for more than once run after new and strange gods in the fields of mining in Colorado, and in fact the entire west, until finally all have become broken in the romance of seeking wealth, and they are again upon the rugged grounds of San Juan—home to stay. They have conclusively discovered that there is more wealth in the grand old mountains of San Juan than in any other portion of the west. The vast mineral region surrounding Silverton has long been inaccessible until within the past ten months, and our resources have not enjoyed equal opportunities to reveal their wonderful riches. To this end alone we are grateful to the energy and irrepressible pluck of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, which has built into our very center last season with only a surface showing to warrant them a reward. They are now satisfied that, where thousands of dollars have been expended in construction they meet their remuneration into the millions. No one can dispute the fact that the mines of this section can be worked as cheaply and are now as accessible as any other section of the world. We can show more ore within fifteen miles of Silverton to-day than any other mining section in this progressive world, and the facts are cropping out in every quarter of San Juan county to prove our assertion. The development of the past year has revealed enough to warrant those who invest in any of our mines that they will find remuneration at no distant day and be satisfactorily rewarded for their investments. Stand by the San Juan.

EASTERN VISITORS.

Arrival of the Fourth and Last Raymond Excursion.

Composed of People from Many of the Eastern States.

Notes of the Journey and Full List of the Party.

The fourth and last party of Raymond excursionists arrived at Manitou yesterday afternoon at half past two o'clock on a special train of reclining chair cars over the Denver & Rio Grande. Although the party started from Boston it will be seen by looking over the list that many of its members are from New York, Ohio, New Jersey and other eastern states. Like all the other parties sent out by Raymond & Whitcomb it is composed of a very nice class of people who prefer to travel in this way rather than by themselves. Not so much because the expenses of the journey are less but simply because they have no care or responsibility. Their baggage is looked after, the hotels provided, bills paid; in fact all that is asked of them is to step from one train to another at connecting stations. The present party started from Boston one week ago to-day, going direct through to Chicago, via the Boston, Lowell & Concord and Grand Trunk railways. Here Sunday was spent at the Sherman, where the party were given the kindest of attention by J. Irving Pease, the proprietor. From Chicago westward the excursionists traveled over the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe lines in special trains. Both these roads showed them much attention, especially the Rock Island.

From the start the excursionists have experienced the pleasantest kind of weather and nothing has happened to mar the pleasures of the trip. At Chicago the excursion was joined by a party of thirteen, two of whom belonged to Chicago, three to Cleveland and the other eight were from New York. Since leaving Chicago several others have joined and the party now numbers, all told, about seventy-five people, forty-four of whom are ladies and thirty-one gentlemen.

The party is in charge of Mr. Luther L. Holden, of Boston. Mr. Holden came west with one of the parties last year in the capacity of correspondent for the Boston Journal. He has given up journalism and will in the future devote his attention exclusively to the excursion business. All of the excursionists speak in the most complimentary way of the manner in which Mr. Holden has conducted the excursion so far and seem to think that they could not have been placed in better hands. Mr. Holden is assisted by Mr. George V. Moulton, one of the well known and most popular conductors of the Boston, Concord, Montreal and White Mountain railway. Mr. Gilman W. Wheeler, in charge of the baggage, is also from the same road.

The party spent the night at the Manitou house, where their wants were administered to in the most satisfactory manner by Mr. Bailey. This morning at 6.30 o'clock they go to Denver, Central, Black Hawk and other points in the northern part of the state, returning to Manitou on Friday night to remain over Sunday.

The Denver Times still hesitates to print that contract. Why?

The Memphis Avalanche is one of the few democratic papers that favors a protective tariff. It urges southern democrats to endorse the late tariff bill.

The New Jersey legislature has adopted a law prohibiting tobacco dealers from selling cigarettes to boys under sixteen years. The penalty is twenty dollars.

The Republic finds another opportunity to cast a slur on the hotel and aptly improves it. So far as the price paid by the council for hauling in gravel is concerned, it exhibits lamentable ignorance in criticising it. The price is that paid by a private corporation and usually a city can afford to pay as much. It is necessary that it should be done promptly before the hotel opens, and the party receiving the contract is the only one with facilities for doing it in a very short time. If there is any responsible party who will offer to do this for less money in the same time, we should urge the employment of any honorable means to reopen the contract.

The hotel is the most important public enterprise established here since the college. It will have a vital influence on the prosperity of the city, and should have the cordial support of every citizen. Whatever liberality can consistently do to help the enterprise should be done. The men who have subscribed so liberally toward the capital stock did so with no hope of gain out from public spirit. It is in no way therefore a private enterprise. The almost unanimous petition of the property holders and taxpayers of this city in favor of grading Cascade avenue by the city is answer enough to the charge that the council did not carry out the wishes of the taxpayers.

Alexander Sullivan, the new president of the Irish-American National league, in a recent interview protests that his organization has nothing to do with religious matters, that the national feeling among Irishmen is as general among Protestants as Catholics. Among the prominent Irish patriots in the last century Swift, Grattan, Wolfe, Tone and Emmet were Protestants—Parnell is a Protestant and many other members of the land league. It will greatly strengthen this new movement if it remains a purely national one. This has not been the case heretofore. The attempt to give Ireland a local self government in the latter part of the last century was a failure, because local self government meant the triumph of a religious sect, or a class in society. If it now means simply Ireland for Irishmen, there is much more chance of a successful agitation.

It is now apparent that Governor Butler has undertaken the Tewksbury almshouse investigation, not to reform evils, but to throw mud. He has perverted the truth by making it appear that the republican party was refusing to reform abuses that it had already reformed, and made the state responsible for what it never did. All this is arousing an amount of indignation that will bury Butler under 50,000 majority if he should again be a candidate. State pride is strong in Massachusetts, and she will not permit her governor to slander her. The Boston Advertiser closes a strong article on this subject with the following significant language: "Of course the weary work of making the truth appear through the dusty cloud of falsehood and misrepresentation must be undertaken, and in the end the name of Massachusetts will suffer not at all from the slanders now put upon her.—And the people have also a stern account to settle with the man who undertook with so much zeal the work of giving to the country a perverted view of the Tewksbury institution. Massachusetts has much state pride. Her people know that they are guilty of none of the offences which the governor charges upon them. They are not responsible for cruelty because there is no cruelty practiced, so far as they are aware to be responsible for. The time is coming when they will show what they think of a slanderer."

We have spoken frequently of the wonderful development that will take place in western Colorado on the line of the Denver and Rio Grande railway during the present year. The following item from the Gunnison Review-Press indicates the character of some of the developments:

Mr. William B. Pabor, formerly of this town, no Farmer stopped off in Gunnison last night on his return from Grand Junction where he has been on business connected with the Grand Arch ditch. He was accompanied to the Grand Valley by Mr. T. C. Henry, formerly of Abilene, Kansas, who took the $15,000 worth of bonds in the Grand River ditch company. Mr. Henry has decided to establish a loan and trust office in Grand Junction, to loan money on farming lands and other realty, to handle bonds, to buy and sell real estate, and to aid in every legitimate enterprise connected with the town of Grand Junction and the Grand valley. The capital at the command of this company will be of considerable amount. Mr. T. C. Henry will be its active agent, the company with headquarters in Denver. He has been the medium by which millions of dollars have been distributed among the farmers of Kansas, and his coming to Colorado at this time will be the means of furthering the interests of Grand valley and western Colorado to an extent equal to that of the English colony in northeastern Colorado. Mr. Henry is a heavy stockholder in the Denver Industrial Exposition, is president of the Denver Circle railway company.

The resident manager of the company in Grand Junction will be Mr. W. P. Pabor, a name well known in every part of the state, a man who has done more than any other man in the state to further the agricultural and horticultural interests of Colorado. His many friends in the state press will be pleased to learn that Mr. Pabor has left the duties of newspaper work, but they will unite in wishing for him in his new field of labor that phenomenal success which unfailingly follows an adaptability for and devotion to a chosen work. The Grand Valley has reason to congratulate itself upon getting such a man as Mr. Pabor interested with it especially when he represents so extensive an enterprise as the Grand Valley Loan and Trust company promises to be. The company will begin operations May 1.

Already some twenty eight miles of this ditch has been constructed which will place some 40,000 acres under cultivation. Few of our readers appreciate the richness of the Grand valley. In the first place there is more water than can possibly be used for irrigating. The rich salubrious climate adapts it peculiarly for fruit raising and other profitable branches of agriculture. Settlers are pouring in and the presence of so much capital renders a speedy development certain. The Grand valley settlers with the abundance of water and elaborate system of irrigating ditches, will begin at a place which most agricultural settlers in our state have waited ten or fifteen years to reach. Many of our readers will remember Mr. Pabor and will rejoice that he has received so responsible a position and wish him success in it.

PERSONAL

The New York policemen who fired so many shots at a fugitive without hitting him must have been nimbleest in dismount.

Mr. Gladstone appeared in the house of lords in sky blue satin and gold clocks. He must have been a peacock in a fit.

At the St. George's society's banquet in New York the other night the toast, "the president of the United States," was received with impromptu music by the society. "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

A horse thief in a western prison is altogether too nice in a theological point of view. He complains that the chaplain of the prison is a Presbyterian, which he himself is not, he being a Methodist.

Miss Kate Field remarked in an address in New York Monday night: "I suppose that many of you know that recently in France, Mme. Nilsson lost her husband and as he died intestate she was obliged to divide her own property between herself and her husband's family."

"The servant girl question put in a new light by the Boston Transcript. A difference is to exclaim: the girl at the intelligence office when asked by the lady in search of help for a recommendation: 'to whom should I give you a reference? It is no use for you to say that's got to live with you.'"

An American nouveau riche having purchased an ancient castle on the Rhine with all the accessories, was found by his daughter on the first cold day warming his hands at a stove which he had kindled in a suit of plate armor. "O pa, what have you been doing?" Replied the knight of the manor with satisfaction: "The fellow that patented that stove must have been crazy. But I've made the old thing heat up."

A young Jersey man, recently married, had hardly passed the first week of his honeymoon before he was called upon to answer to the charge of stealing five cows. His defense was that he had stolen the cows because he had no money to go to housekeeping, and in order to get some to buy furniture with. Having said this he burst into tears upon which the bride, who was in court, instead of falling upon his neck, and begging that she might be taken to jail with him, denounced him as a "liar and thief" and suggested that he ought to be hanged for his crimes.

Gordon Cumming

Cornhill Magazine.

We have had many a book of South African adventure, but Cumming may be said to have been among the last of the gentlemen pioneer-errants. The English settled up the Transkei and Natal, the discontented Dutch trekked out into the Transvaal. Livingstone had made friends with the wild tribes on the Zambesi, and had sent the travelling gentlemen of the period on pilgrimages of admiration to the Victoria Falls. "These tourists into the interior, on expeditions 'personally conducted,' tried to pay their way, and not unfrequently nearly succeeded. A race of heavily armed elephant hunters arose, who organized themselves in small parties, who were regularly equipped by their sleeping partners for slaughter or barter. Beads of the fashionable colors and breadths of scarlet cloth with robes of tawdry embroidery were exchanged for tusks, skins and karosses. Though most of these men had primarily an eye to the main chance, many of them were as keen sportsmen as Cumming, and to the life was rough there were the seductions of romance in it. There were other dangers besides the risks of the actual chase. Astute chiefs 'pounded' the wagons for frontier duties arbitrarily imposed; the poisonous tsetse fly killed horses and draught oxen, fountains gave out on the long desert stages or the rains descended and the floods fell, changing meadows into the river valleys into malarious swamps. The strength of the traders was sapped and they were shaken to pieces by fevers, venomous snakes, on the look out for snug quarters, coiled themselves in their blankets and under their pillows, and their cattle were lifted by tiny barbarians, armed with poisoned arrows, who could scarcely be tracked over the stones to their earths and lairs in the fronds. But the danger and the profit continued to draw these men like magnets, till the beats they were wont to traverse have been pretty nearly cleared of big game. And where sporting adventure has ceased to tempt the shooting trader the savage has been left to pick up what has been left, so there is a flying market for the dwindling supplies of ivory, &c., drawn from the elephant districts that are yearly more remote. A precedent shortly occurs, has been going forward from each commercial centre on the coast of the continent. Arab traders with their headquarters at Zanzibar affect the merchants on the Congo or Niger, who do business on the westward waterfronts. A Colonel Grant might walk across Africa now and never stumble by any accident on the tracks of an elephant, and although the southern frontiers of Abyssinia have been comparatively undisturbed, we suspect that rifles consigned to the merchants of Khartoum have been spreading desolation in Baker's sporting paradise of the Abyssinian tributaries of the Nile. Yet it is not so very many years ago since white sportsmen like the patriarch at the door of the tent he saw giraffes and elephants spreading themselves in troops in the well timbered savannahs in the valleys beneath him. It is true that certain animals are born with a dread of their own species, that nothing but danger is to be got by pursuing them, and the danger is of a singularly disagreeable kind. We can conceive nothing more horrible than the rushes of the lentha who is said to have the superhuman craft of the cat, along with the habit of dropping on the sportsman from the branches overhead, and should your nerves have stood the tolerance of the northern growlings and if you should succeed in to play the tables on him, the sole satisfaction is in having the monster stuffed and editing some provincial museum with the grotesqueness of a nightmare incarnate.

Charles II

British Quarterly Review.

Louis XIV., imposter as he was, caused himself to be regarded by Europe almost as a sort of mythological personage because he was for 50 years the most laborious worker in his kingdom. Charles was not like enough nothing pleased him better than to sit and laugh at his council, especially if Buckingham were there to make faces over the good Chancellor's slightness of to go to the house of lords and mimic that dignified assembly by his sotto voce remarks. There is no doubt, too, that in all questions of the navy or of colonization the fight dash of English blood in his veins showed itself in eager though momentary interest. But he could not, like Louis, live laborious days, the vagabond habits of exile and constant debauchery had taken from him all power of sustained application. A brilliant club-lounger he would have been in any country—one wishes that he and Horace Walpole—had lived together, and that their good things had been recorded—but a king in troublous times needs more than wit. "The king," says Pepys, "adheres to no man but is at the command of any woman like a slave. Boys cry in the streets. The king cannot go away until my Lady Castlemaine is ready to come with him." In Holland there was a caricature representing Charles between two women with his pockets inside out. On the 21st of June, 1667, while the Dutch fleet were burning the shipping in the Thames, Charles and Buckingham, and the women they carried with them, Castlemaine and the rest, are all drunk together, "all merry a hunting a poor moth." And Pepys says, and we all say, "It is strange how everybody do nowadays reflect upon Oliver, what great things he did, and how he made the neighbor princes fear him." The idea of duty was as unknown to Charles as to Napoleon the Great. Gross and contemptible selfishness was his only guide. The present act, the avoidance of worry, was his god, and his faithful worshipper made him a liar, a mendicant, and a thief. In all cases of difficulty his habit was to act as mathematicians say along the line of least resistance. Thus he is always ready to save off parliamentary opposition or to get money by falsehood, persecution, surrender or betrayal of his country. He usually tried falsehood first. He came into the country by force of lying, and throughout his reign the only one of Louis' maxims which he carried out with success was to cultivate his natural talent for dissimulation. Thought and speech had no apparent connection in his mind; no one indeed, ever thinks of sincerity and of Charles together. North puts this most courtier like. "This," he said, "procured him not only great disappointment, but sometimes a necessity of contradicting himself, which gained him the character of not being true to his word." "He was honest, and did justice to all unless his affairs constrained him to fail." With his cool head and had heart disbelieving the whole story of the popish plot, Charles, as Scott says in "Peveril of the Peak," "with his usual selfish prudence truckles to the storm and lets axe and cord do their worst upon the noblest in land." "I cannot pardon him," says the worthy descendent of the person who gave up Strafford "because I dare not."

THE ONLY DISSOLVENT OF THE POISONOUS URIC ACID WHICH EXISTS IN THE BLOOD OF RHEUMATIC AND GOUTY PATIENTS.

SALICYLICA is known as a common sense remedy because it strikes directly at the cause of Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, while so many so-called specifics and supposed panaceas only relieve temporarily the effects.

It has been conceded by eminent scientists that outward applications such as rubbing with oils, ointments, liniments and soothing lotions will not eradicate these diseases which are the result of the poisoning of the blood with Uric Acid.

SALICYLICA works with marvelous effect in this acid and so removes the cause.

It is now exclusively used by all celebrated physicians of America and Europe. Highest Medical Academy of Paris reports 86 per cent cures in three days.

The Cross-Questions of a Four-year-old Girl.

New York Herald.

A fashionably dressed matron yesterday sat in the rear cabin of a Fulton ferry-boat. She was accompanied by a thin-legged, restless-eyed little girl, aged 4 years or thereabout. A few seats away was a man with a wooden leg. As the boat started the child turned to the mother in search of a little information.

"Mamma," she began, "how does the boat move?"

"By steam, my dear."

"And how do they get the steam?"

"A man below makes it, dear."

"And suppose the man forgot to make enough steam to take us all the way across?"

"Well I suppose the wind would blow us across then."

"But suppose there was not enough wind?"

"Oh, don't bother me any more, dear. I'm sure I don't know what we should do then."

"But, mamma—"

At this instant the inquisition came to a sudden stop. With unerring instinct the children's eyes had lighted upon the man with the wooden leg. They soon at once became fixed, dilating with concentrated interest. The child crawled down from her seat, upon which she had been kneeling, in order to afford that eye further facilities for observation. The object of scrutiny squirmed uneasily in his seat. The mother, probably surmising what might be coming, and presumably acting in the light of previous experience, sought to create a diversion by successively calling attention to a white French poodle at the other end of the cabin, to a passing lighthouse, and to a "little man up there on the big bridge." It was all of no use. Turning to the mother the child exclaimed in a portentous whisper:

"Oh, ma! Look at that man."

"Hush, my dear." You must not be rude."

"But, ma," (in a very audible whisper) "do look at his leg."

"Be quiet, Ethel, I tell you," frantically urged the matron in agitated tones. "The poor man has lost his leg. It is very rude to notice it."

"What's that one made of?"

"Hush! of wood, my dear. Look at that pretty little boy over there. See how good he is."

"Did you ever have a leg like that, ma?"

"No, my dear. Look over there at that—"

"Will pa or Uncle John or Trevor have one, ma?"

"No, dear."

"Could he kick a ball with that leg?"

"Hush, do!"

"But, ma"

At this juncture the man with the wooden leg sought in turn to create a diversion. He drew from his pocket a pretty little bon-bon box and offered the child some sweetmeats. The child accepted them with some hesitation and mistrust. An instant later the boat reached the slip. The mother rose, and, smiling graciously, said: "Thank the gentleman, Ethel, and say good by."

Ethel advanced, her eyes still firmly fixed upon the object of interest. She held out the tips of her little fingers.

"Good-by," she said, in a voice full of emotion; "good-by, you poor, poor man."

The mother seized the child by the hand and hurrying through the boat gained the bridge.

Gillies and Earls.

London Truth.

John Brown will undoubtedly be mourned in Windsor, for he frequently conferred valuable benefits on his obsequious friends in the town. At the weddings of the Dukes of Connaught and Albany many of the best places in the nave of St. George's were filled with Windsor publicans and tradespeople, who had received tickets from their powerful friend. In fact, they were seated on the chairs in front, while peers and peeresses and persons well known in "society," were standing behind. When Princess Alice died, the queen stayed at Windsor through the Christmas holidays, to the great discontent of the inhabitants of that "royal borough," who did not like to lose their boxing-day-benefit by the closing of the state departments. One of John Brown's friends, who was himself deeply interested in the question, spoke to him on the subject, whereupon "J. B." declared that he would speak to the queen and "get leave for the place to be open," and sure enough, although the court was in retirement, the state apartments were opened, and thousands of persons passed through them, to the great damage of the carpets and furniture—an unprecedented breach of the usual practice. The end added to one of the wreaths placed on John Brown's coffin, upon which her majesty had written, "A tribute of loving, grateful, and everlasting friendship and affection from his friend, best and most faithful friend," is sneered at by many who thought her majesty's strong expressions of affectionate regard to the memory of Lord Beaconsfield were right and proper. Why, however, should not the queen make known her loving kindness and affection for the departed dog as well as for the departed earl? We are far too ready given to regard servants as an inferior race, and all radicals will rejoice that her majesty has been taught a lesson. A Highgillie, in their eyes, is as good as a Beaconsfield; but I should have imagined that it was not necessary to be a radical to hold this doctrine when both are dead.

Next Saturday night the Harrisons in "Photos" will make their first appearance in Colorado Springs They are now playing the Colorado circuit The Leadville Herald says of them "A company that includes Alice and Louis Harrison and John Gourlay is bound to afford abundant entertainment no matter what the play that serves as an excuse for their appearance "Photos" is an absurdity that, while of the negative order, is rendered positively entertaining by the individual abilities of a number of clever performers, whose mimicry, singing and extravagant burlesque make a very pleasant impression on an audience that seeks to be amused. Miss Harrison is a charming little soubrette, and, though evidently indisposed, soon made friends with her audience Louis Harrison is one of the cleverest of comedians, and irresistibly comic in his eccentricities John Gourlay, formerly with "Salsbury's Troubadours" is also one of the best eccentric comedians, and his specialties are always taking. Miss Hosmer and Messrs. Overton, Willard and Vincent are excellent in their support, and aid in making "Photos," with its liberal sprinkling of puns, good, bad and indifferent, popular airs well rendered, and grotesque dancing, one of the brightest and most pleasing entertainments of its kind The Harrisons deserve a liberal patronage
